CURRENT SYSTEM PROBLEMS / END USERS

The problem with the current system is that my client, Ela, is using facebook to advertise and run her business. The end users are people who are going to book beauty appointments from her.

Simply put, here are the problems with the current system:

1. Facebook is complicated
2. Not everybody is on Facebook
3. It will take a while to book appointments using Facebook messenger
4. Not able to fully personalise a Facebook page

INTERVIEW WITH ELA

I am going to interview Ela and ask her a few questions related to running her business on Facebook, as well as a few questions about what she would like in the website.

Below I will list the questions and answers.

- 1. Why would you like to have a website made for your business?
 - Facebook is quite basic when used for businesses and allows for little personalisation. I really want a website that I can personalise with a nice font and aesthetically pleasing images.
 - Websites are a better marketing tool and will attract more people as well as making people more likely to visit me.
- 2. What are the advantages and disadvantages of using Facebook to run your business?
 - Facebook is very quick and easy to use, as well as almost everyone having access to it.
 - Facebook has a message button on the page, so it isn't much effort for people to message me straight from the page whereas on a website, they will have to type in my contact details before they can message me.
 - The main problem is that if they're not friends with me, they won't be able to see the page until I pay for advertisement. It will be a small page buried within the millions of other pages on Facebook (if people add me as a friend, I will be sharing it on my wall)
 - As for the advertising, it is very expensive and you have to pay £6 per day for 10 days which is quite expensive for a small business that is only just starting out.
 - Facebook is definitely seen as less professional than actually owning a website. I want people to see and know that I am actually passionate about this business, it's not just a small project on the side.

Having a website will look much more professional and allow for people to find me easier.

3. What is important features you are looking for in a website?

- Customers will be able to view contact details, including address, telephone number, and a link to my Facebook page
- They will also be able to view the location of the business through a Google map embedded into the contact page
- On the front page, I would like a moving banner to display some of my work. Please put very visually pleasing images that will catch the eye of potential customers.

4. What kind of colour scheme would you like for the website?

- The colours should match the logo, so that means I would like a purple, black, and white colour scheme.

5. Is there anything else I should note while making this website?

- Something that I would really like to see is an animation of pink glitter 'fairy dust' appearing when people click on certain points, such as photos in the gallery
- I would much prefer it if people contacted me via Facebook messages or phone as I check these much more regularly compared to emails.
 - If possible, I will try to set up a button that will allow people to click and directly message Ela through Facebook.

OTHER RESEARCH

I have done some research into the pros and cons of running a business on Facebook. There are some good points on each side. It is a great way to promote and advertise your business, however, advertising is expensive and you constantly need to be posting if you want to keep your Facebook customers seeing and sharing your content. In my opinion, I think that a website or something other than Facebook would be better for actually running a business, but a Facebook page for your business is a good way to share your progress (pictures, videos etc) and is a good advertising tool if you have the money.

I have also researched the advantages and disadvantages of using a website for running a business. Advantages include being able to reach a larger audience, easy access for the majority of people, and being a completely personalised, reliable source of information. A few disadvantages range from receiving spam mail in the contact form, to people referencing your website in bad reviews which could cause a loss of customers. As well as this, it's easy to forget to update information in the website regularly, which could lead to unintentional false information being given to customers.

Furthermore, I researched some statistics on how important it is to make a website responsive and adapt to phones / tablets. www.boutiquebydesign.com gives some helpful information on this:

- 80% will purchase goods and services via a smartphone or tablet each month.
- 62% say they won't use or recommend a business without a responsive website.
- 69% search on their smartphones to source local businesses. 43% visit that place within a day.
- 68% research on their smart phones. 35% of those follow through with a purchase.
- 76% research on their tablets. 41% of those follow through with a purchase.
- They claim that 'not having a mobile-ready site is like closing your store for one day every week'

Websites are very important. 97% of consumers shop online for products and services, yet 58% of small businesses do not have a website. Google 2012

INPUT/OUTPUT FORMS

The system I am working on is going to have more detailed input/output forms, but currently there are very simple ones. The input will be customers messaging Ela asking her about a certain beauty treatment and if they are able to book it. The output will be Ela confirming with a price, a time and a date, asking if this will be okay. It is slightly complicated to describe the input/output systems at the moment, because there are no clearly structured forms. I will include more about these in the Design document.

ALGORITHMS

There are many algorithms which will be used. Many will be from integrated systems such as Facebook, Google Maps etc, but, if I decide to make my own booking system, there will be many algorithms in place there. The most complicated algorithms in the booking system will be not allowing two users to book at the same time, allowing Ela to block times off (eg. if she is on holiday), and not allowing Ela to block off times that someone has already booked. She should also be allowed to add and delete records herself, using a login system to do this. There will be MySQL scripts which enter this booking data into a database, as well as the data from Ela adding her beauty treatments.

SMART TARGETS

There are several SMART targets that I have for the website currently. I will list them in order of their deadline dates.

1. Complete and submit analysis for review by November 1st
2. Get basic website information from Ela by November 14th, including which tabs she would like included, all contact details, photos for gallery, products.
3. Create a MySQL database with all the products for the website by December 1st.
4. Learn how to and create a moving banner with at least two images by December 1st.
5. Complete front page and gallery (doesn't have to have all pictures) by December 14th.
6. Finish basic layout of all web pages (all images and text are put in, and in the correct places) by the 1st of January
7. Learn how to link database and be able to successfully link the databases to the website by the 14th of January.
8. Ensure that people are able to book treatments successfully and that Ela is able to enter / delete treatments by 1st February.
9. Completely finish the website by 14th February, this includes adding any integrated systems, finishing touches, special effects etc and checking that they are all working.
10. Complete testing and evaluation by 1st March.

ABOUT THE WEBSITE

A little bit about the website:

- a. It will be made in HTML with PHP, CSS and use a MySQL database
- b. Can schedule appointments from it
 - i. I am going to set up the booking page with either an integrated booking software or a booking system that I have made. The user will be able to input their name, contact details, what they are booking, and when. This will then move into a database, which is linked to a separate website and will make it easy for Ela to view appointments, contact her clients, and overall keep on top of business on a day-by-day or week-by-week basis.
- c. Will be responsive and fit to any screen
 - i. The website is going to be able to fit to any screen size. The way I will do this is by using a free responsive template, stripping it of its contents and creating the website from scratch using the template. I am using a template because responsive websites are quite complicated to make, and it will save a lot of time that could be used on creating the actual content of the website. The benefits of having this is so that users on mobiles will be able to simply navigate the website, just as easily as a desktop or laptop user is able to.

d. Admins will have logins

- i. Any chosen administrators will be able to log in to the website. The way this is going to work, is that the website will have several different pages, and there will be one page that you can only access if you create an account. I will create the login using a PHP session variable. If the user is logged in, they will be able to add new treatments or delete existing ones. This again requires the mySQL database to be linked to the website.

One main reason for choosing this project is that I think it will be a challenge and I will get to broaden my range of skills by learning how to connect a database to a website, which will be required for this project and is something I have yet to learn; as well as this, it isn't so complicated that it will result in me not being able to finish.

Another reason for choosing to go through with this project, is the fact that I already knew a few people who were looking for websites for their company. I was easily able to find someone to work with, and since I know them already, they are more likely to accept my offer and trust me in handling the creation of their website.

ANALYSING THE PROBLEM

The problem with using Facebook to run a business, is that in order to book appointments, the process is slightly complicated. There is currently no clear list of items and prices, so people will have to message Ela directly and tell her what they want, ask for the price, and then confirm and book. This is a problem for a few reasons, one of which is that if the price is too high for someone, it will be slightly awkward for the person booking to say that they have changed their mind. Also, it might take a while to book if Ela or the customer is not online a lot or doesn't frequently check their messages. As well as this, not everybody is on Facebook, but everybody has access to internet webpages.

The users are people who would like to view and book beauty appointments, therefore a large portion of these will be female. To narrow it down, the age range is probably going to be between 16 and 35 years old.

I have decided to fix Ela's problems by making a website, because it will allow her to run her website with less hassle. The website will mean that it will be easy for people to book appointments, view details on items and prices, as well as directly contact Ela or find out exactly where the business is located. It is just a good source of information in general and will be extremely helpful for both Ela and her potential customers.

WHAT ELA NEEDS FROM A WEBSITE

Ela needs a website that:

- 1. Is visually appealing
 - a. Uses the colours of the logo
 - b. Has special effects when clicking on certain things
 - c. Is clean and professional
- 2. Clearly shows what the business is about
 - a. Has a large amount of pictures of her work
 - b. Detailed information on each product
- 3. Shows her passion for the business
 - a. Has pictures of her achievements (certificates etc)
 - b. Has an 'About Me' section explaining why she started the business which will make the website more personal
- 4. Allows customers to book appointments
 - a. Involves a booking system
 - b. Allows Ela to keep track of bookings
- 5. Allows people to contact her via Facebook
 - a. Allows people to message her page directly
 - b. Link to her business Facebook page
- 6. Gives as much information possible
 - a. As many contact details as possible
 - b. Google Maps location embedded

CONSTRAINTS

- There aren't many constraints for my proposal. I believe that I will have plenty of time to complete this, and I am already aware of how to create websites so I won't need to learn any extra languages (HTML/PHP).
- The cost is going to be very small, as we will only need to pay for the personalised URL and Ela stated that she will fund the cost of this. I don't need to pay for any software as it is all available in college and at home for free.
- The only hardware needed is a computer which are available anywhere so this is not a problem.
- Overall, I would say that there aren't many constraints to worry about, I think I will be able to complete this project without anything holding me back.

LIMITATIONS

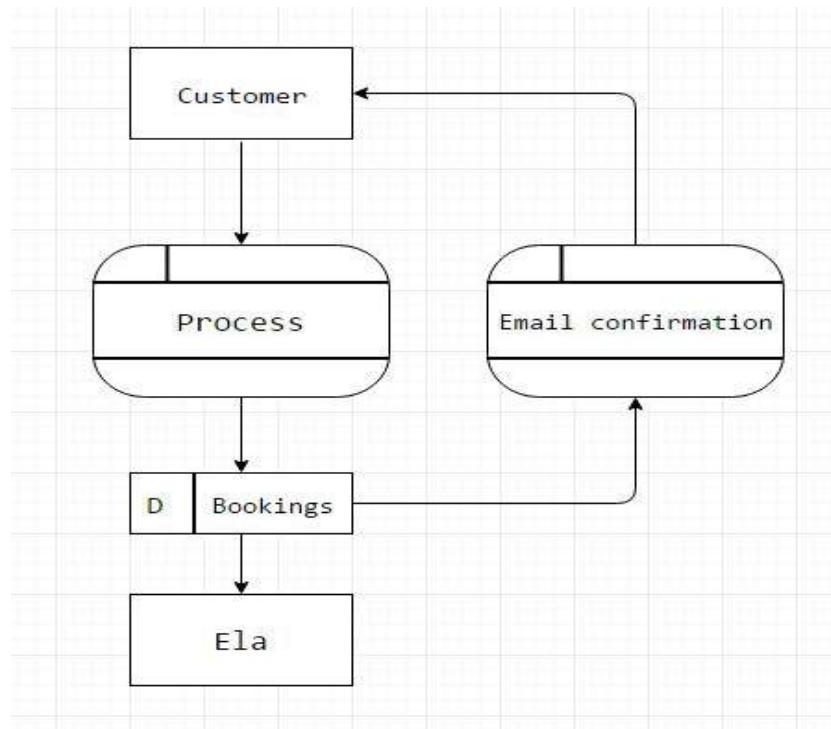

One limitation for this project is the fact that before college, I didn't know anything about making or designing websites. I don't study web design, but I taught myself how to create them one holiday. Because of this, I have a fairly limited knowledge of how to create good websites. I am going to have to use a lot of online tutorials to help me on my way.

Something that Ela really wants to put into the website is a graphic effect of pink glitter appearing when clicking certain points on the website. I think this is going to be difficult for me, especially as it's not a common feature in websites. I am going to try my best to put this feature in.

A final problem I could mention is that I am unfamiliar with MYSQL, however, I am currently learning how to use it in my college lessons so I don't think this will be a problem for my project. I also know many people who would be able to help me if I had any problems.

DATA FLOW (MORE IN DESIGN)

I currently am not sure if I will be using my own booking system or an integrated one, however, if I did create my own, this would be the process:

Here is a very simple DFD I made to show the basic structure of booking an appointment.

1. The data source is going to be customers inputting data to the online booking form.

2. The data will then be processed and put into a database named 'bookings'. It will have a foreign key from the database of beauty treatments.
3. An email will be sent to the customer's email-address as a confirmation.
4. Finally, Ela will be able to view the updated database and see the new booking.

VOLUME OF DATA

The volume of data currently is rather small, as Ela has only recently started this business and she only gets maybe one or two customers a week. We don't need to take any measures to accommodate a large amount of traffic / data.

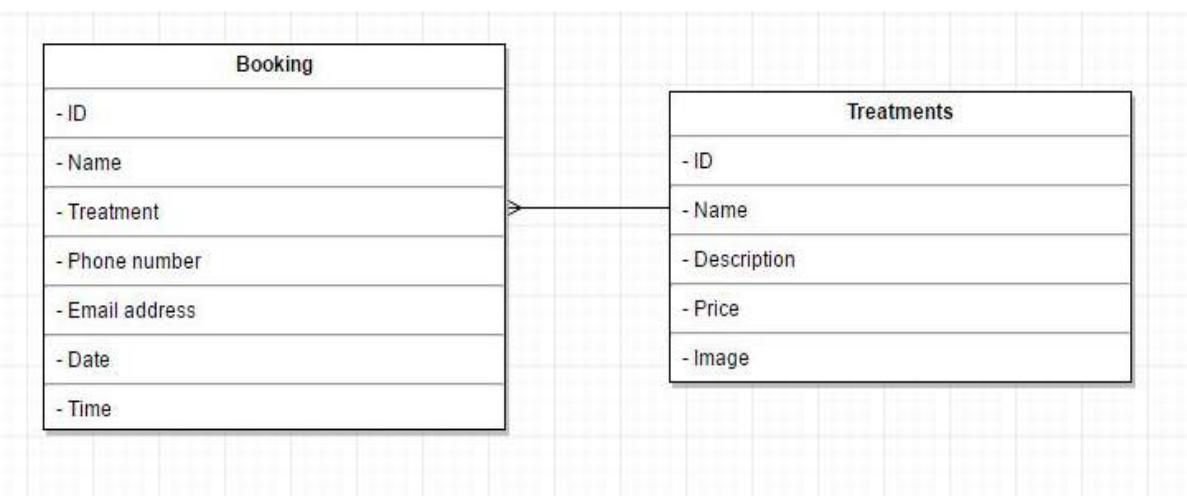

DATA DICTIONARIES (DATABASE TABLES)

'Bookings' database if I make my own system:

Field name	Caption	Data type	Notes
booking_id		Auto inc.	Primary Key
u_name	Name of user booking	Text
t_name_fk	Treatment name	Text	Foreign Key
date		Date
time		Time
u_email	User's e-mail	Text
u_phone	User's phone no	Integer

'Treatments' database:

Field name	Caption	Data type	Notes
treatment_id		Auto inc.	Primary Key
t_name	Treatment name	Text
t_caption	Description of the product	Text (long)
t_price	Treatment price	Integer

Design

OVERALL SYSTEM DESIGN

My system is a website that provides information on a business that offers various beauty treatments. It will have a homepage, containing large, bold images and banners. This will catch the eye of people who view the page for the first time, and hook them in, intriguing them to view more.

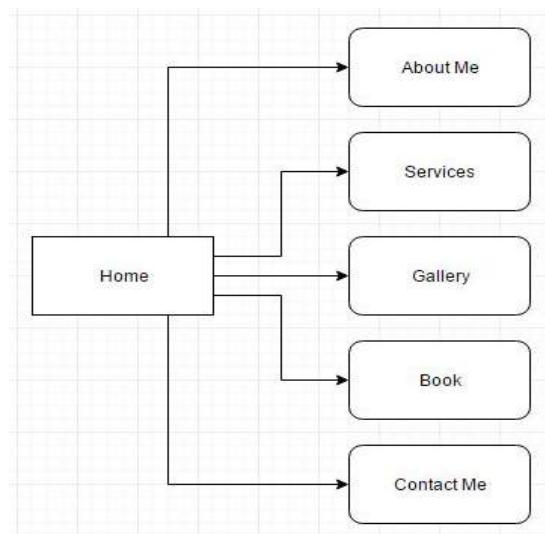

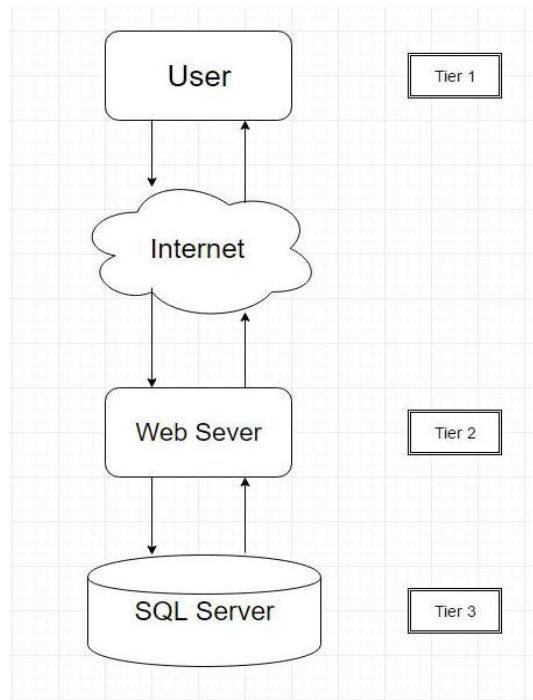

The second tab is 'About Us', which tells the user about Ela, the owner of the business. It will describe her experience in the industry as well as explaining why she chose to start this business and showing her extreme passion for it. On this page, users will get a sense of comfort as they will know exactly who is going to be carrying out the treatments on them and see that she is an approachable, passionate person. Getting to know the owner will definitely make them more likely to want to book an appointment.

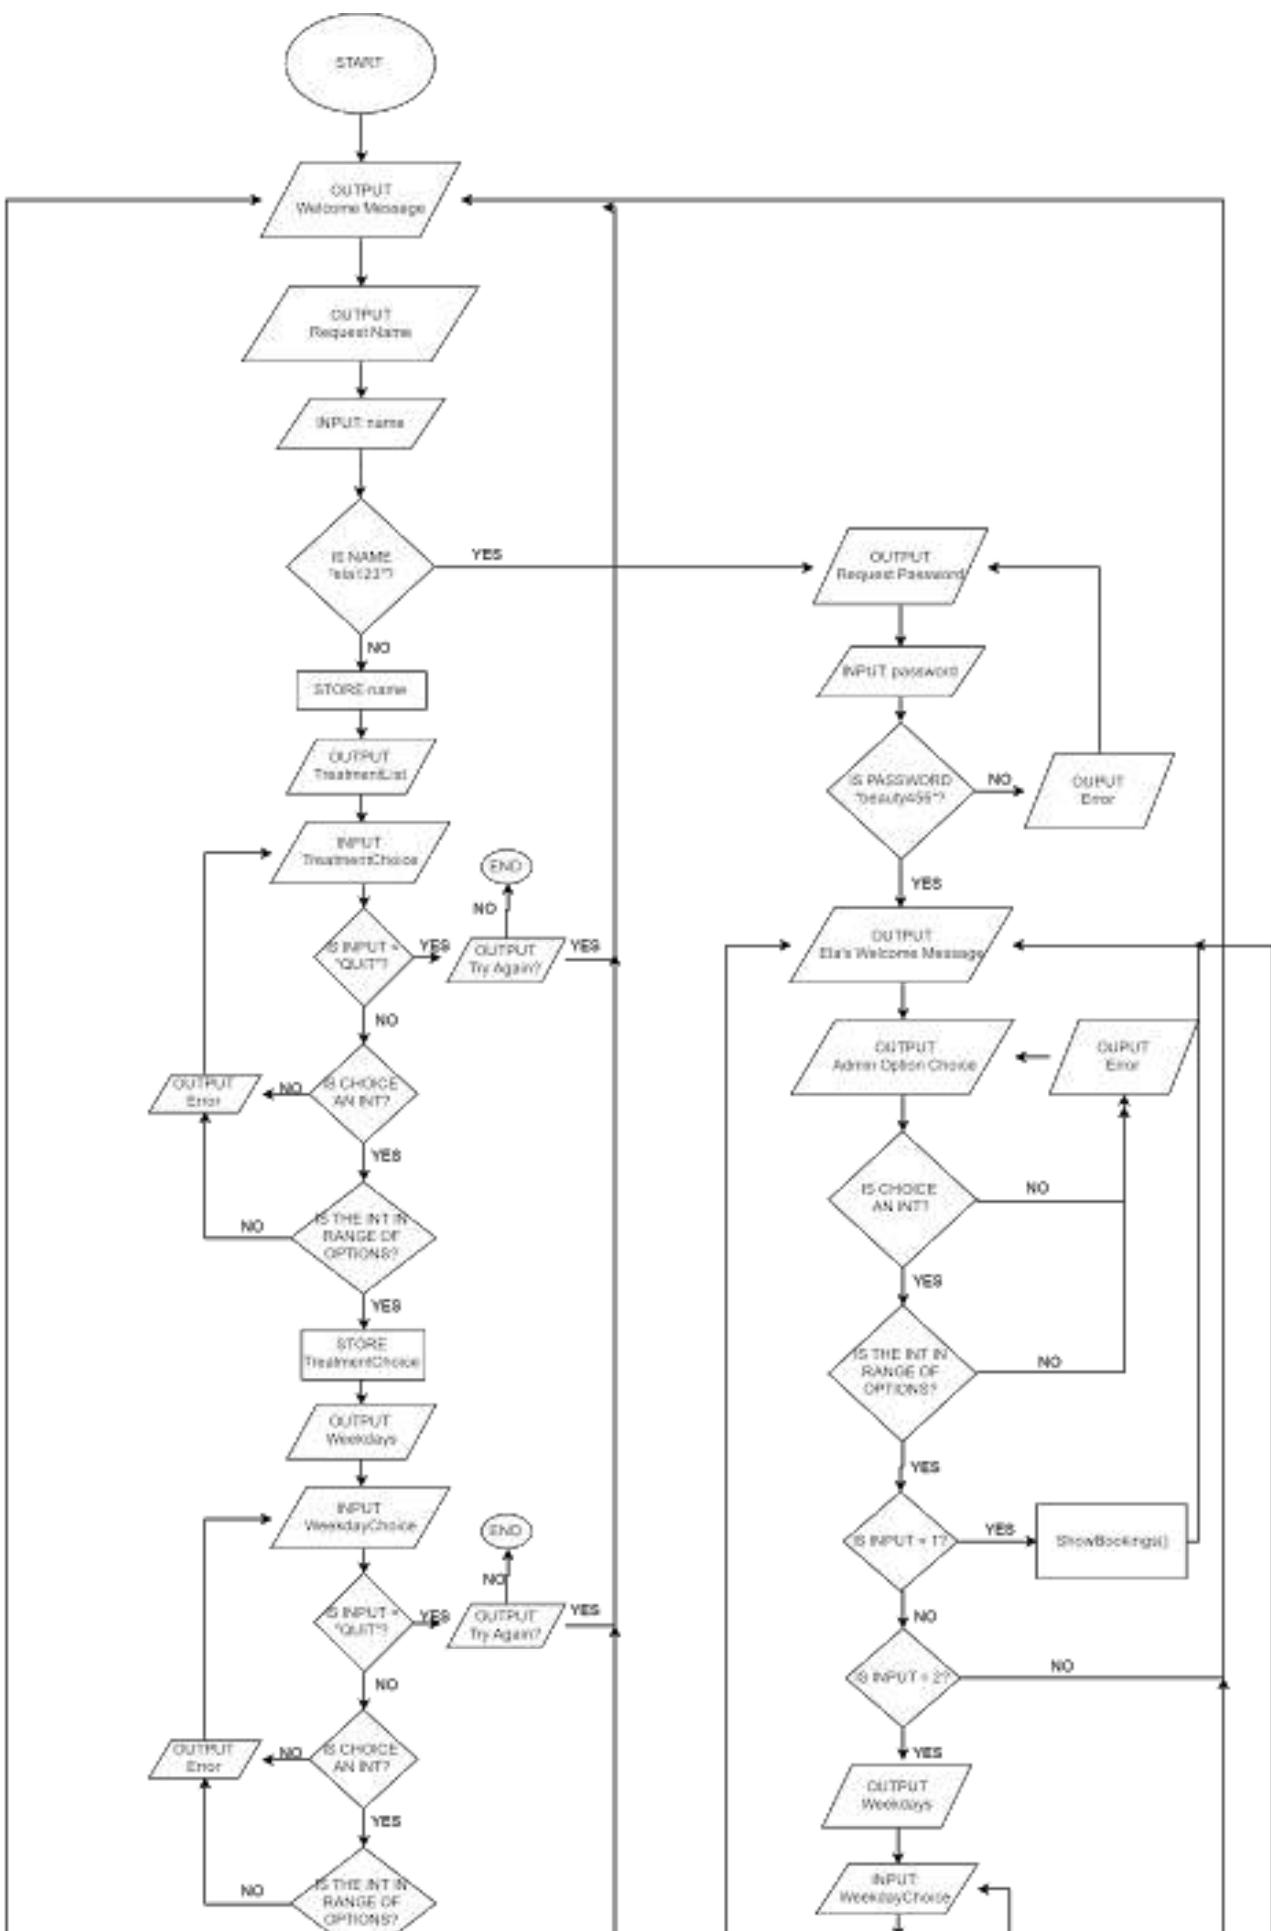

Next is the 'Services' page, which will display all the current beauty treatments and products. It will show the name of the treatment, extra information, and a price. People will know exactly what they're getting and feel more confident about booking a certain treatment.

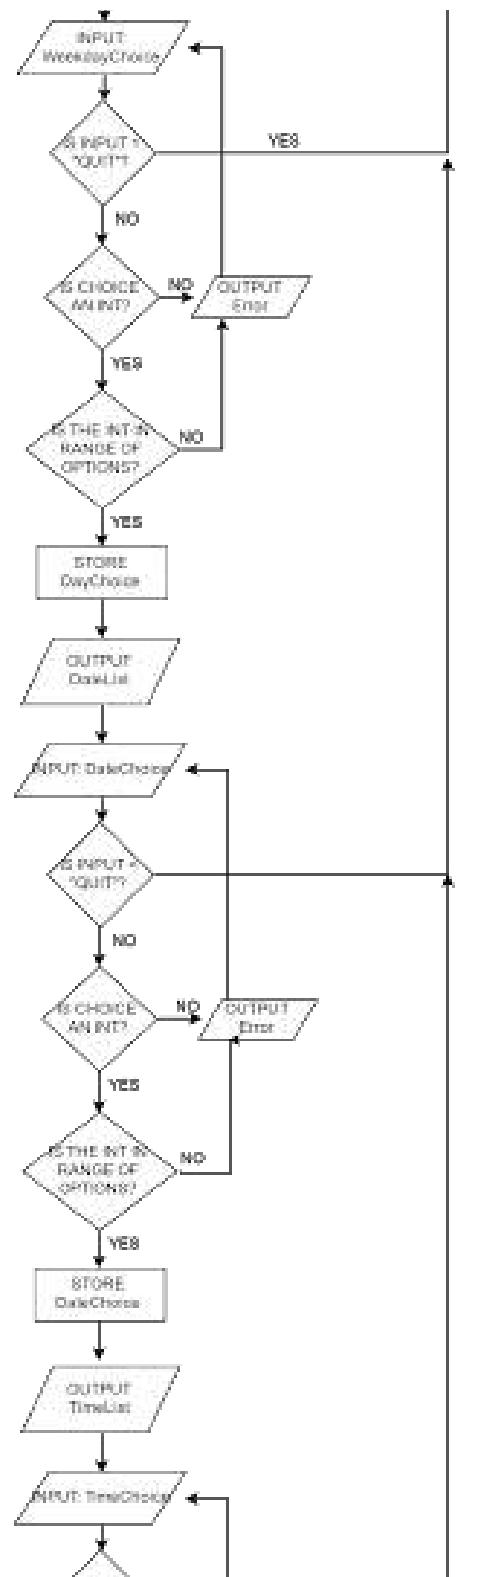

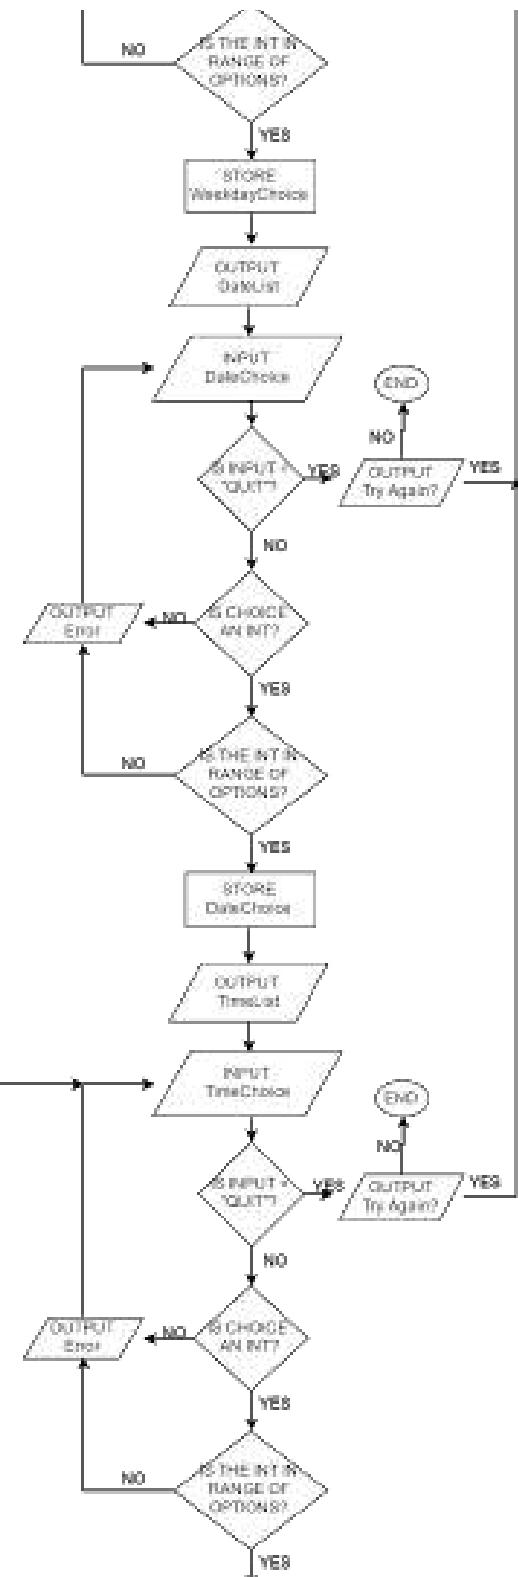

'Gallery' has many pictures of every treatment, as well as pictures of Ela at work and at training courses. It will allow people to see the kind of work that is being done and maybe even provide inspiration as to what they would like for themselves.

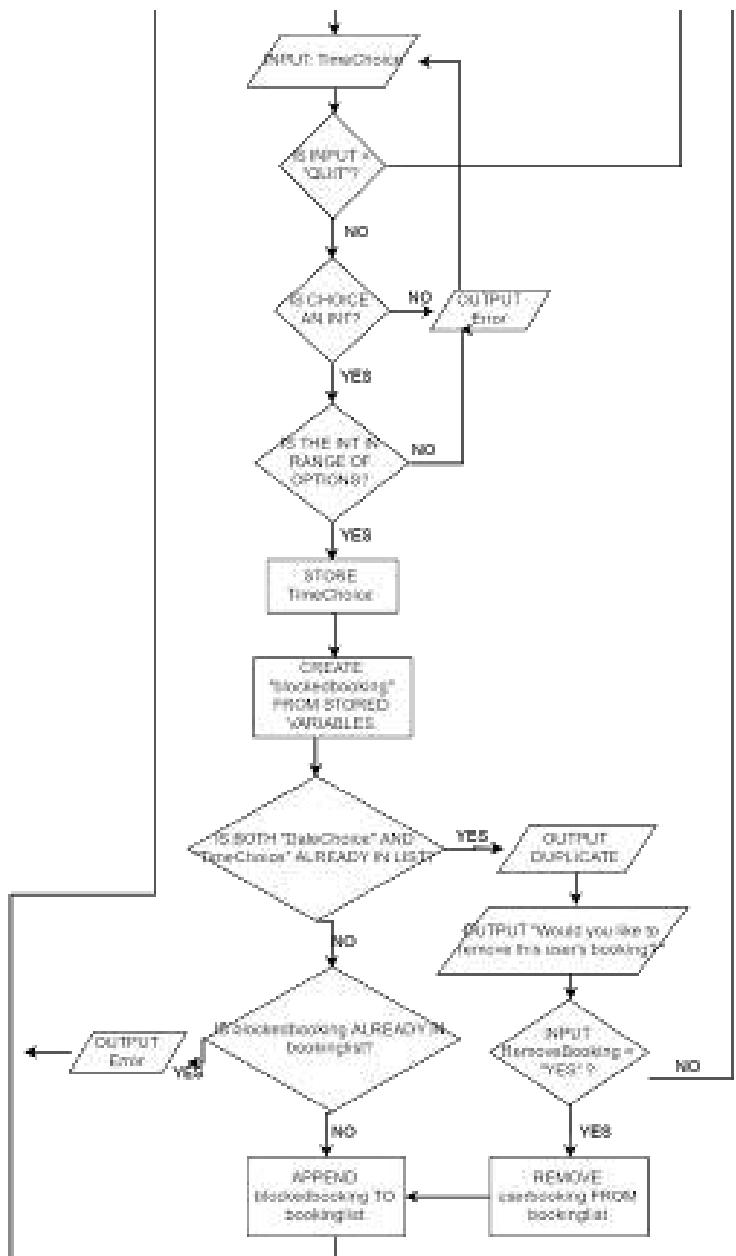

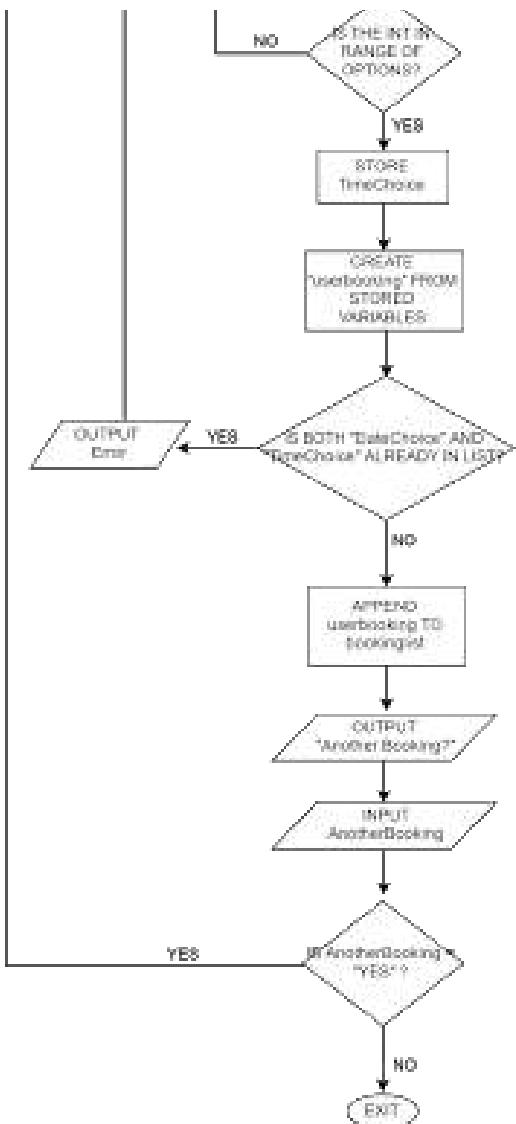

After Gallery, there is a Book page where the user will be able to schedule appointments with Ela at a time of their choice (as long as Ela is available). This will be done through an integrated software and link to a page where Ela can view bookings easily.

Finally, there is a 'Contact' page which provides information such as Facebook, email, phone number etc, where you can contact Ela directly to ask her questions, book an appointment etc. Alternatively, there will be a page where you can book appointments on the website.

INPUT / OUTPUTS AND PROCESSING

The website itself will have few different type of input forms. The main type would be the form for Ela to enter and delete treatments from the database. There are validation rules which are described later on in this document. The input forms will be:

- Admin Login Username
- Admin Login Password
- Enter Record (Name)
- Enter Record (Extra Information)
- Enter Record (Price)
- Submit Button
- Delete Record (ID)
- 2nd Submit Button

If the username and password are correct, the service editing page will be output. After entering a record and clicking submit, the data will be processed into the MySQL database and the updated database will be output onto the screen. The same happens when deleting a record.

There will be a few other input forms on the website, although they are from the integrated systems. The contact page will hopefully have a Facebook Messenger link, so that a user can type their message (input) in a box and Facebook will do the processing and output it to Ela's inbox. As well as this, the booking system will have input boxes for name, treatment, date, time, and contact details, again, with validation rules. This data will be processed into a different database (names "Bookings") and will be output only to Ela if she requests it.

Previously, I have included the flowchart of the booking system made by myself in Python. There are many input/output and data processing stages of this system. The input/output stages are represented by a parallelogram outline, and processing in rectangles, as shown below:

The outputs are labelled in italics, and inputs in bullet points, data processing in capitals.

Typical User Experience:

"Welcome"

"Please enter your name"

- Name
 - NAME STORED

List of Weekdays

"Which day would you like?"

- Preferred weekday
 - WEEKDAY STORED

List of dates for chosen weekday

- ONLY SHOW DATES CORRESPONDING TO WEEKDAY

"Which date would you like?"

- Date of choice
 - DATE STORED

"Which time would you like?"

- Time of choice
 - TIME STORED

"Please enter your email."

- Email Address
 - EMAIL STORED
 - STORE ALL VALUES IN 'BOOKING' VARIABLE

Display user's booking

"Would you like to confirm? Y/N"

- Confirmation of Booking
 - BOOKING STORED IN LIST OR DELETED
- Confirming whether they would like to make another booking or not
 - BACK TO START OR QUIT

If there is a duplicate user booking, the user will receive an output message, telling them that someone has already taken this time. This is done by adding only the time and date of each booking to a separate list, and searching through this list for duplicates. If the new user's data is processed through this list and there is a duplicate, the error message will show. They will be taken back to the time choice stage until they choose a time that is not in use, or type "quit".

If the username "ela123" is input, the password box will appear. She then has her own custom welcome message which is an output, and can input a choice of either viewing bookings, blocking off a date, or logging out. Similarly to the duplicate user booking, if she tries to block a date that has been booked, an error message will appear. The data will be processed and loop through the two different lists to find the contact details of whoever made the booking, so she can then have the choice whether or not to delete it.

MODULAR STRUCTURE OF SYSTEM

Home:

Split into text, images, and other graphics such as banners. Very visual to hook people in.

About:

Images of the business owner, as well as text about her passion for the business

Services:

Has a table as well as some text. The table shows a list of services offered by the business, which is linked to a MYSQL database. If the owner is logged in, she can edit this database with PHP forms.

Book:

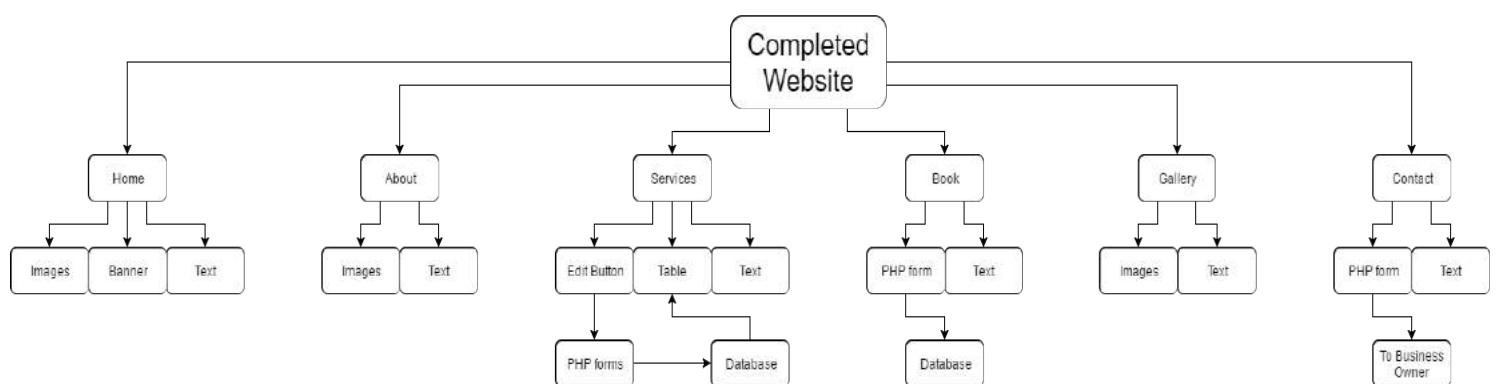

This will be an integrated online software which was built for scheduling appointments. It will be linked to Ela's email and she will be able to view appointments online. Confirmation emails will also be sent to clients.

Gallery:

The gallery is simply a collection of images and text to show off the services. I will integrate some code from a free responsive photo gallery and add Ela's pictures inside.

Contact:

The contact page will have a Google Maps integration to show the location of the business. I will also try to add buttons such as a direct button to find the owner's Facebook page etc. This will be accompanied by text, and possibly images.

DATA REQUIREMENTS

Treatments

- Description
- Price

If I use my own booking system:

Booking
- ID
- Name
- Treatment	→
- Phone number
- Email address
- Date
- Time
- Notes

Database (Visual Representation)

Field name	Data type	Data length	Validation rules	Where is it stored?

t_name	Text	30	Presence Check	Treatments
t_desc	Text (long)	500	Spell Check Presence Check	Treatments
t_price	Integer	3	Format Check Presence Check	Treatments

If I use my own booking system:

Field name	Data type	Data length	Validation rules	Where is it stored?
booking_id	Auto inc.	10	Presence Check	Bookings
u_name	Text	50	Presence Check	Bookings
t_name_fk	Text	30	Presence Check	Bookings
date	Date	10	Format Check Presence Check	Bookings
time	Time	5	Format Check Presence Check	Bookings
u_email	Text	50	Format Check Presence Check	Bookings
u_phone	Integer	15	Format Check Presence Check	Bookings
notes	Text	500	Spell Check	Bookings

Database (Text Representation)

Treatments will be input through the website, but from using a login form, only the business owner and administrators can edit this. There will be a name, description, and price for each treatment. The name will be text (30 characters), the description a long text (500), and the price an integer (up to 3 figures).

If I make my own booking system:

The data will be input through the website. For the booking table, a PHP form will be used on the booking page of the website. The user will enter their name, email, and phone number as well as the foreign key of the treatment they would like to book, and the date and time of the appointment. Finally, there is a 'notes' section where they can add any extra information not covered in the form. An ID number will be automatically added. It will start at 1 and increase with each booking. As for data types, the user's name (up to 50 characters), email (50), notes (500), and treatment name (30), will be stored as text. The date is stored as a data type 'date' with a length of up to 10, the time is stored as data type 'time' of up to 5, and phone number (15) stored as an integer.

VALIDATION CHECKS

DATABASE VALIDATION

There are a few validation controls that the database can put in place for me. Firstly, there is presence check, which checks that data has been entered into the field. This is for essential fields such as name, phone number etc. Format check makes sure that the format in each cell is how it's meant to be, for example, not allowing letters in the 'price' section for a treatment. Finally, there is spell check which simply checks for correct spelling.

INPUT FORM VALIDATION

When the treatment ID and price are input using PHP forms, I will put validation checks in place to make sure that only correct data is entered before it even reaches the database.

I have some Javascript code from previous work, which makes sure that only numbers can be typed into the ID and price boxes. If the user clicks on any key other than a number, it simply will not be typed in. This makes sure that a valid number is entered. Another check is the PHP Session variable. If the username and password are correct, Ela will be logged in, but if not, the session variable will ensure that no access to the edit page is allowed. There will also be an error message saying "Incorrect Login". Furthermore, when actually entering records, the website should also give an error message if one of the required fields aren't filled out.

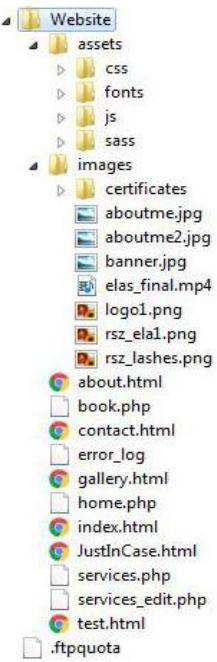

BOOKING SYSTEM VALIDATION

I have created my own booking system in Python after some late feedback from another student in my class, which can be found in Evaluation. There are many validation checks in place for this system, which I will list below. Please note that the options for dates, times etc are chosen by the user inputting a corresponding number e.g. Monday - Sunday would be labelled 1 - 7, and the user would input "1" for Monday.

Features:

- Many 'try, except' statements.
- Booking options MUST be an integer or the word 'quit', otherwise an error is shown and the user will have to re-type.
- The integer selected by the user MUST be in range of the amount of options, otherwise an error is shown and the user will have to re-type.
- Dates are only shown for the weekday the user selects.
- After a user enters a booking, they will have to type Y / N in order to either confirm the booking or quit. Any values other than Y or N will throw an error. (Yes, No, and other equivalents are accepted.)
- After each booking, the user will again type Y / N to confirm whether they want to make another booking or not. Again, any other values will show an error.
- If a user tries to book a date and time that has already been booked, an error message will show, prompting the user to select a different time.
- At the start, the user is prompted to enter their name. If the secret admin name, "ela123", is typed in, a password option will appear. This password box will not appear when any other text is typed in the name box.
- If an incorrect password is entered, an error is thrown and the password will have to be typed again.
- Ela is able to block times so that people can't book them. If she tries to block a time that someone has already booked, she will get an error message showing who it was that booked the time.
- If a user tried to book a blocked time, they will get an error message.
- Ela can stop in the middle of making a blocked record, but the code ensures that she will stay log in until she chooses to log out.

FILE SYSTEM

After going into the 'Website' folder, the web pages are shown as well as a few other folders, one containing other code parts, css, javascript etc and the other containing images and other media.

QUERIES

/* Inserting */
```

function insert_db($name, $desc, $price, $img) { $insert = ("INSERT INTO post (t_name, t_desc, t_price, t_img) VALUES ('".$name.",
".$desc.", ".$price.", ".$img.");
$handle = mysql_query($insert);
echo $handle;
}
```

```
/* Creating a table from database */
```

$sql = "SELECT * from post";
echo "";
$result = mysql_query($sql);
while ($row = mysql_fetch_assoc($result)) {
#insert code for table here
}
```

/* Deleting */
$id = $_POST['t_id'];
if (!$conn)
{
die('Could not connect: ' . mysql_error());
}
mysql_select_db("itecdigi_451917_co1", $conn);
// sending query
mysql_query("DELETE FROM post WHERE t_id = '$id'")
or die(mysql_error());

SYSTEM DATA - STORAGE AND BACKUP

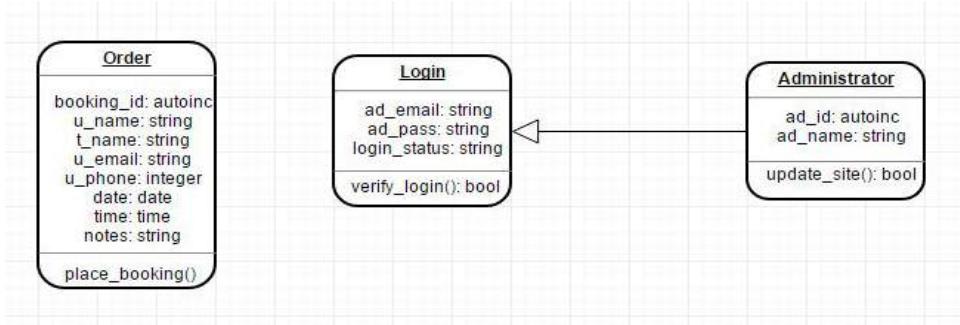

- a) The system data is saved on the server. I use a program called Filezilla to store the files and use Notepad++ to edit them. The files can be accessed no matter what computer I use, so they will always be saved and readily available.
- b) I will back up the system data on several locations, which will be on both of my laptops as well as a USB stick. By backing up in three different locations, it will ensure that I will always have access to the files. They will be backed up in at least one location every time I work on them so that they are up to date, then I can move them over to the other locations.

Why does this program need to be solved by a computer?

This problem needs to be solved by a computer as it's the most convenient and useful tool for creating websites. The website will need to be coded mainly in HTML and PHP, and linked up to a FTP such as FileZilla. While there are some FTP applications on mobile devices, it will be a lot more difficult to use them and you would have to keep switching between applications (Text editing software to browser) to see your progress.

If I used my own booking system:

USER INTERFACE

The UI Interface features a colour scheme to match the logo of the business, and the colours are white, purple, and black. This was specifically asked for by my client and it gives the website a sleek look to show the business side of things, while also showing that the business is targeted at females. I'm going to use soft shades and try not to have any harsh colours/lines, so that the page has a comforting look.

As for dialogue, I'm going to try and limit the amount of text, especially on the homepage. This is because a lot of visuals are going to be used, and Ela wants people to focus more on this than text. If people see lots of examples and like what they see, they are more likely to book.

The website will be easy to navigate, as there will be a navigation bar at the top which stays in the same place no matter what page you're on. On mobile, this will appear as a burger menu in the top left hand corner.

Finally, as for the input/output devices, just a basic computer will be used, meaning the standard monitor, keyboard, mouse etc.

The diagram illustrates a website layout for "Ela's Beauty Room". At the top, there is a header with the text "LOTS OF THIS COLOUR" next to the logo, which is circled in orange. The logo itself is purple and white, with "Ela's" in a stylized font and "Beauty Room" in a smaller, regular font. To the right of the logo, the text "Nails & More" is visible. Below the header is a navigation bar containing links: Home, About, Services, Book, Gallery, and Contact. The word "NAV BAR" is written in orange to the left of the navigation bar. A large, light-gray rectangular area below the navigation bar is labeled "LARGE BANNER" with arrows pointing towards it. To the right of the banner, there is a section with the text "LOTS OF PICTURES" in orange. The main content area features a heading "Heading" followed by "WELCOME" in a stylized font. Below the heading is a paragraph of placeholder text (Lorem ipsum) in black.

DATA

Data Security

The data will be well secured. Only the administrators can log in, and only they will be able to see the databases. I will create a PHP script to check on every page for if an admin is logged in or not. If logged in, they will be able to edit products in the database as well as view the database of bookings.

Data Integrity

The data will have to be kept accurate and up-to-date in the database. I will be using MYSQL to create the database, which uses many different error checking and validation routines. For example, text cannot be entered into a numeric field and vice versa.

Data Recovery

The data will have a backup stored on a USB drive and updated regularly, so if the main data is lost, I can always go back to this USB stick. I will also keep backups of the entire website on my computer.

Features:

- Big, bold logo to catch people's eyes. I used this logo with Ela's permission.
- A slideshow of images (created by editing code from *Slick*¹).
- Minimalistic heart icons (from *FontAwesome*²).
- A button linking to the booking page.

² <http://fontawesome.io/>

- Facebook 'like' and 'share' button integration, linking to the business facebook page.
- A colour scheme to match the logo and catch eyes.

A CSS template named Arcana (by *HTML5 UP*³) was used to enhance CSS and allow for a user-friendly, responsive experience on any device. I have given credit to the designers at the bottom left of the homepage, as you can see.

CSS

I have written my own CSS file for this page of the website only, which is listed below:

```
.credit {
    color: rgba(71, 71, 71, 0.45);
}

[class^="fa fa-heart-o fa-4x"], [class*="fa fa-heart-o fa-4x"] { display: inline-block;
    width: 33%;
}

.i {
    text-align:center;
}

.slider {
    width: 70%;
    height: 40%;
    margin: 80px auto;
}

.slick-slide {
    margin: 0px 20px;
}

@media (min-width:960px) {
    .slick-slide img {
        width: 100%;
        height: 450px;
    }
}

@media (max-width:960px) {
    .slick-slide img {
        width: 100%;
        height: 250px;
    }
}
```

³ <https://html5up.net/arcana>

/* Smartphone */
@media only screen
and (min-device-width : 320px)
and (max-device-width : 480px) {
    .slider {
        width: 85%;
    }
    .slick-slide img {
        width: 100%;
        height: 150px;
    }
    [class^="fa fa-heart-o fa-4x"], [class*="fa fa-heart-o fa-4x"] {
        width: 32%;
    }
    .slider {
        margin: 40px auto;
    }
}

/* Large screen */
@media only screen and (min-width : 1824px) {
    .slick-slide img {
        width: 100%;
        height: 600px;
    }
}

.slick-prev:before,
.slick-next:before {
    color: #595557;
}

.slick-container {
    height: 60%;
}

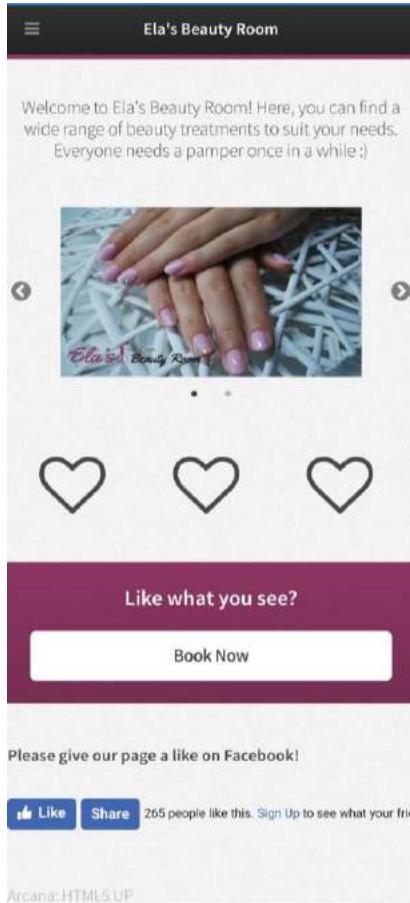

.slick-slider, .slick-list, .slick-track {
    height: 60%;
}

#homelogo {
    padding-top: 5%;
}

@media (min-width:840px) {
    #homelogo, #mobiletext {
        display: none;
    }
```

This CSS is mostly to tweak the responsiveness, as the template CSS makes the website responsive, but doesn't affect code that I integrate from other websites, such as the slider and heart icons. This means that I have to manually fix the responsiveness for these. I did this using bootstrap, teaching myself from the bootstrap website. (<http://getbootstrap.com/css/>)

This is how the page looks on mobile:

As you can see, I have added some extra text to the home page on mobile format. This is because when the logo is condensed, the page looks more empty, and I wanted to fill it with something. As well as this, the navigation bar has turned into a burger menu for smoother mobile experience.

My name is Ela Pawelczyk. I was born in Poland and came to England 10 years ago. I have always wanted to start my own beauty business, it's been my passion for many years. COMMENTS

This is the page where Ela's customers can really get to know her and see why she started her business, and what it's all about. There are two pictures of her with her family, as well as two paragraphs of writing.

The logo is slightly smaller on this page compared to the home page. I have made the logo smaller on all the other pages as it is more of a decoration now, whereas on the home page, it is one of the main features to draw people in. You can see this code on every page just under the code for the header.

Again, I have implemented the Facebook 'like' and 'share' buttons. I have included these on every page to maximise the chance of people spreading the word.

CSS

For the CSS, I have used the template stylesheet that came with the website template, however, I have also changed around some features of this page to make it suit mobile better. This includes moving one of the pictures to underneath the text. I have included a screenshot below.

COMMENTS

At the start of the code, you can see that I have created a PHP session variable. I chose to do this rather than creating a database full of admins, because Ela is running the business by herself, there is no team. She has made it clear to me that she will be the only person editing the database, therefore, this is a simple and effective piece of code to implement. If the correct username and password are input, the page will redirect to the service editing page. If the username and password are incorrect, an error will display.

For the Services page itself, I have written some code that links a mySQL database to the webpage. The table headings are Name, Extra Information, and Price.

The login button is located at the bottom of the page.

This page has quite a few features on it; there's the code to link to the mySQL database, as well as the input form and code to link Ela's inputs into the database, then finally, the delete form which deletes a record by searching for its ID.

On the ID and Price, the input has this code attached:

" onkeypress='return event.charCodeAt() >= 48 && event.charCodeAt() <= 57' "

This line of code makes sure that only numbers can be typed into the box, as a small validation check to make sure that the correct data is entered.

At the bottom of the page, there is a 'log out' button, which directs the user to the logout.php page and destroys the session variable.

CODE

<?php session_start();
    session_destroy();
    header('Location: http://www.elasbeautyroom.co.uk/services.php');
    exit();
?>
```

SCREENSHOT

N/A, This page immediately re-directs to the Services page.

The purpose of this page is to destroy the session variable, so that the admin is no longer logged in, and whoever is using the computer no longer has access to the database.

SCREENSHOT

The screenshot shows the homepage of Ela's Beauty Room. At the top, there is a logo for 'Ela's Nails & More' featuring a nail polish bottle icon. Below the logo, the main navigation menu includes links for Home, About, Services, Book (which is highlighted in blue), Gallery, and Contact. The central content area is titled 'Book Services' and displays a list of nail treatments with their descriptions, durations, and prices:

NAILS	Service Description	Duration	Price
Artificial Nails	3h		£35
Gel on Natural Nails	2h		£25
Nail Infill	2h		£25
Manicure	1h 30min		£10
Shellac Manicure	1h 30min		£20

At the bottom of the page, there is a social sharing section with a message 'Please give our page a like on Facebook!' and a link to the Facebook page.

The booking system is an integrated system by a company named Shedul, which helped me integrate the beauty treatments from my database into a booking system. This system lets you choose multiple treatments, stating the duration and price of each, and sends both the client and Ela an email confirming this. An example of the email can be shown below.

The email confirmation is from 'Ela's Beauty Room notifications@shedul.com' to 'Steph'. The subject line is 'Your new appointment is confirmed'. The email body contains the following text:

Hi Steph,
Your new appointment with booking reference E05579C6 is confirmed. Here are the details:
Ela's Beauty Room
Artificial Nails
Tuesday, 4 Apr 2017 at 6:00pm
At this location:
Ela's Beauty Room
+44 7960 088568
Need to change your appointment? Please contact Ela's Beauty Room on +44 7960 088568.

The way in which this system works, is that firstly, you have to choose which treatments you would like to order, as shown in the first screenshot. After you have chosen, a date and time picker appears, which allows you to choose from any time where Ela is free to work.

Finally, a form will appear where your contact details are entered. The date, time, and price are also confirmed.

A screenshot of a booking confirmation form. It includes fields for "FIRST NAME" and "LAST NAME", both with red asterisks indicating required fields. To the right, it shows two services: "Gel on Natural Nails (2h) with Ela Pawelczyk" and "Nail Infill (2h) with Ela Pawelczyk". Below these are fields for "EMAIL" and "MOBILE NUMBER", both with red asterisks. To the right, it shows the "Date" as "Sunday, 30 Apr 2017 at 11:00am". Under "BOOKING NOTES", there is a text input field containing "Ela's Beauty Room". At the bottom, there is a "Confirm" button in a blue box and a "Total price £50" label.

The gallery is another integrated feature, from Juicebox. However, I have taken the code and directly edited it, (the code in italic writing) for this page, plus some extra pieces in other files.

Here is an image of the file structure for these galleries:

As you can see, I made 6 gallery folders. Each folder has a few sub-folders, including one for the images, one for thumbnails, and the jbcore folder, the one for the fonts and display which I didn't make. I linked all of these galleries together to put them on one page.

From the screenshot, you can see that each gallery folder has a config.xml file. This file is what joins a single gallery's folders together. Here is an example of the config file for the 'Pedicures' gallery:

<?xml version="1.0" encoding="UTF-8"?>
<juiceboxgallery galleryTitle="Pedicures"

COMMENTS

The final page is the contact page, where I have included several different contact methods to get in touch with Ela. Since Facebook is generally the most popular social network, I have included a direct message box so that people can message straight from their facebook accounts to Ela's page and get in touch with her. As well as this, I have the usual contact methods of a phone number and email. Finally, there is an integrated Google Maps widget, which is set to show the location of the business. This allows people to quickly see how close they are to the business and how long it would take to get there.

DESCRIPTION

I received some feedback, which you can find in my evaluation section, that inspired me to create my own booking system. For Ela's website, I will be using the third party system, but I did want to try making my own booking system that could one day be implemented into a website.

I wrote the code for this system in Python, a language I am familiar with. As of yet, I haven't converted this code to PHP, but I know how I would be able to do this if needed. I would definitely have to link it to the database, adding the connect, insert, delete functions with SQL. I would also provide a more user-friendly interface, such as using drop-down boxes to select a treatment, and a date/time picker. The main step is actually converting the code, but this would be fairly easy for me since I know both languages well.

WHAT IT DOES

This code starts by giving the user a 'Welcome' message, letting them know that they are in a booking system, and that they can quit at any time by simply typing 'quit'. 'QUIT' and 'Quit' are also accepted. For most stages of the booking, this command will allow them to exit. The only time they can't use this command is when having to type a Yes/No answer, or while entering their contact email after confirming their booking time/date.

After the welcome message, the user enters their name. This is then stored as a variable which will be combined with their date and time choice and be put into the booking list. The name 'ela123' is set as the admin username, meaning that if this is typed in, a password box will appear. In short, it is a hidden admin login method. If the password is entered incorrectly, the user will be prompted to enter it again until it is correct.

If NOT logged in, the booking algorithm will continue. The user will be shown a list of weekdays (Monday – Sunday) with corresponding numbers, and will have to type in the number of the weekday they would like. This is then set in a variable as their weekday choice.

There are a number of validation checks in place, such as the program not accepting text other than 'quit', and not accepting integers that are out of the option range.

The user will then be shown a list of dates, which will be different depending on which weekday they have chosen. The same validation checks are in place, and again, this is stored as a variable.

This process then happens once more, where the user selects the time they would like. After selecting the time, the program will ask the user to confirm the booking by typing 'Y' or 'N'. (YES, NO, yes, no, y, n, etc. are also accepted.) If they select 'N', they will be asked if they want to start the booking process again. They can select N to quit the program, or Y to go back to the start.

If the user did in fact type Y to confirm their booking, it will be added to the booking list. A copy of the date and time ONLY will be added to another list, so that there will be no bookings with the same time. If there is a duplicate booking, the user will receive an error message before the confirmation, and will be asked to select a different time.

If the booking was added to the list, it was successful and Ela will now be able to view it through logging in. When she logs in, she is faced with three options:

1. View Bookings
2. Block Times
3. Log Out

The first option will print a list of all bookings. If no bookings are present, the program will output a message saying, "There are currently no bookings.". It will then return to the options menu.

If option 3 is selected, the variable 'ElaValidLogin' is set to false, and a 'return' statement is carried out, taking Ela back to the welcome message at the very start. Option 2 allows Ela to block a time, so that nobody is able to book it. This process is similar to the booking process, but she only has to choose the day, date, and time. If someone has already booked the time she wants to block, an error message will occur, telling her this. Also, I have included some code that loops through the list of just dates/times to find the index of the duplicate, and uses this index to iterate through the list of bookings to bring up the user's booking/contact details. Here is the code:

duplicatelist.append(booking) duplicate = [i for i, v in enumerate(duplicatelist) if v[3] == (str(blockdate[1])) or v[4] == str(blocktime[1])]
    print()
    i = 0
    for i in duplicate:
        print(duplicatelist[i]) i = i + 1
    print()

Ela will have the option to remove this booking if she wishes, which will free up the space to add her 'blocked' record in that date and time slot. If she selects 'Y', it will be removed from the database and hers appended, otherwise, she will be sent back to the options menu.

5.3.1	Test all the galleries on the Gallery page (PC)	All pictures should be present, should be easy to use and change between pictures.	Computer	Typical	The galleries look as expected on PC; fluid, easy to navigate, and easy to switch between galleries.
5.3.2	Test all the galleries on the Gallery page (Mobile)	All pictures should be present, should be easy to use and change between pictures.	Samsung S6 Edge	Typical	The gallery is very responsive, so it looks nice on mobile and is easy to navigate. To change between galleries, you may have to zoom in a little since the links are quite small.

5.4.1	Test the booking system.	The process should be selecting treatments and time, entering contact details. An email should be sent to Ela and the user.	N/A	Typical	The booking process is fluid and easy, working well on both computer and mobile. An email was successfully sent to both Ela and the client booking, which you can see in the evidence part of the test plan.
5.5.1	Test the Google Maps API on the Contact page.	The location should be accurate. You should be able to drag around the map, zoom in and out.	N/A	Typical	Although I entered the exact coordinates of the business location, the map marker is just a few metres off. This is fine, since it is mostly to give people a rough idea of the location. The zoom and drag works fine.
6.1.1	Test that an appointment can be booked.	The user should be able to book an appointment	N/A	Typical	An appointment is able to be booked as expected.
6.1.2	Check that booked appointment is stored in a list.	The appointment should be stored in a list which is shown at the end of each individual booking.	N/A	Typical	As expected, the results were stored in a list.
6.1.3	Enter a duplicate user booking.	An error message should appear, prompting the user to choose a different time.	Duplicate booking	Boundary	An error message was thrown and the user is able to select a different time. Alternatively, they can type 'quit' and start again from the beginning.
6.1.4	Check that a user is able to quit at any time during a booking.	The user should be able to quit at any time by typing 'quit', 'Quit', or 'QUIT'.	'quit' 'Quit' 'QUIT'	Typical	All stages were tested and all accept the 'quit' value. The only stage which doesn't allow you to quit is after you have written 'Y' to confirm the booking.

6.2.1	Enter a number that is not in range as an option for treatments, days, dates, times.	An error message should be thrown so the user will have to try again.	"0" "99"	Boundary	An error message was shown saying "This number is not on the list."
6.2.2	Enter a string in fields which require an integer (not including 'quit').	An error message should be thrown so the user will have to try again.	"test"	Erroneous	An error message was shown saying "Please enter a valid number."
6.3.1	Test that Ela is able to log in.	Ela should be able to log in using the set username and password.	Username: "ela123" Password: "beauty456"	Typical	The password is only asked for if the username is correct. When both are entered correctly, Ela is able to access her admin options.
6.3.2	Enter the wrong password for Ela.	Admin options should not be displayed if the password is incorrect. An error message should be shown.	Username: "ela123" Password: "test"	Boundary	An error message was shown saying "That's not the right password."
6.4.1	Test the 'view bookings' when logged in as Ela. At least one booking should be in the list.	A list of bookings should be displayed.	Option: "1" (1 or more bookings)	Typical	As expected, a list of bookings was displayed.
6.4.2	Test the 'view bookings' when logged in as Ela, and no bookings are in the list.	A message should appear stating that there are no bookings.	Option: "1" (No bookings)	Boundary	As expected, a message was shown, reading "No bookings currently set."
6.4.3	Test that Ela can block a certain date/time.	Ela should be able to block a certain date/time.	Option: "2"	Typical	Ela is able to block a time, which is added to the 'bookings' list so that other people can't book the same time.

6.4.4	Make sure that a time can't be blocked if someone has already booked it.	An error message should be thrown if the time has been booked already.	N/A	Typical	An error message was thrown, saying "Sorry, someone has already booked this time. Here are their details; you can either contact them about this, or remove their booking."
6.4.5	If someone has already booked a time that Ela is trying to block, display the booking details of that person.	The details of the already-booked time should be shown.	N/A	Typical	The full details of ONLY that booking were displayed, with contact details so that Ela can ask them to re-schedule.
6.4.6	If someone has already booked a time that Ela is trying to block, allow Ela to delete their record.	Ela should have the option to delete a user's data if she isn't free on that day, and it would then be removed from the list.	'Y'	Typical	A choice was given of whether you want to delete the record or not. If 'Y' was selected, it was removed from the list.
6.4.7	Check that if Ela chooses not to delete the record, it stays in the database.	The record should still be in the database.	'N'	Typical	When checked, the record was still in the database.
6.4.8	Check that Ela is able to quit at any time while blocking a booking.	The user should be able to quit at any time by typing 'quit', 'Quit', or 'QUIT'.	'quit' 'Quit' 'QUIT'	Typical	All stages were tested and all accept the 'quit' value. Ela continues to stay logged in.
6.4.9	Test that Ela is able to log out.	It should go back to the very start of the program, asking for the user's name.	Option: "3"	Typical	Works as expected.
7.1.1	Load Test using my browser - opening many tabs	The website should be able to handle over 200 tabs open	200 tabs	N/A	After opening 200+ tabs on my internet browser, I navigated the site as usual. It worked completely fine.

7.1.2	Speed Test using https://tools.pingdom.com/	Hopefully, the website will have a fast response time.	N/A	N/A	The website was graded A by Pingdom. It was a good result, as it seems to be faster than over 60% of websites with a load time of 2.56 seconds.
7.1.3	Load Test using https://octoperf.com/	The website should be able to handle over 50 people.	50 virtual people	N/A	The business is fairly new, so I would expect a normal load to be under 50 people. From the test, a few timeout errors were found, but the website seemed to handle it fine.

Errors Found

Test No.	Description	Expected Result	Actual Result	Comments
3.1.4	Click submit for "Enter a new record" on http://www.elasbeautyroom.co.uk/services_edit.php and only enter the price	Nothing should happen, a record should not be entered	The page refreshed and a record was entered containing only the price	To fix this, I need to change the 'name' value in mySQL to 'NOT NULL'. This would mean that a name is required in the database.
3.1.7	Click submit for "Enter a new record" on http://www.elasbeautyroom.co.uk/services_edit.php , entering just extra information and price, no name	Nothing should happen, a record should not be entered	The page refreshed and a record was entered containing the extra information and price	To fix this, I need to change the 'name' value in mySQL to 'NOT NULL'. This would mean that a name is required in the database.
3.2.1	Click submit for "Enter a new record" on http://www.elasbeautyroom.co.uk/services_edit.php , entering all of the information, with a decimal point in the price	The decimal point should be accepted	The decimal point was not able to be typed into the box due to the validation rules of this input box	To fix this, I would need to allow my validation rule for the price box to accept decimal points. At the moment, only numbers are accepted and nothing else, however, this isn't too much of a problem currently since all of Ela's prices are whole numbers.

For tests 2.1.1, 2.1.3, 2.1.4, 2.1.5, and 2.1.6, no error message was shown when an incorrect login was entered. To fix this, I would need to edit the php code at the start of the services.php document.

else if (( $_POST['user'] AND $_POST['pass']) == NULL) { $error = "";
}
else {
    $error = "Incorrect Login";

I think the problem is the "else if" statement, which I would need to change so that if only one was set to NULL, it would still give the Incorrect Login error. This statement is here so that the Incorrect Login errors aren't firing before the user has a chance to input anything, but I can see now that it will need some work on it.

Another very small error I found, was in my own booking system.

Which time would you like to block? 1
Monday 15/05 , 12:00pm has been blocked.
Sorry, someone has already booked this time. Here are their details; you can either contact them about this, or remove their booking.
('steph', 'Artificial Nails', 'Monday', '15/05', '12:00pm', '@')
('Ela', 'BLOCKED DATE', 'Monday', '15/05', '12:00pm', 'BLOCKED DATE')

Would you like to remove this person's booking? Y/N

The problem here is that when blocking a time that has already been taken, the message "DATE , TIME has been blocked" still appears, as I have highlighted on the screenshot. This is not yet true, since Ela hasn't yet confirmed if she wants to replace this person's booking with a block, or leave it as is.

On test 6.4.5, only the one duplicate record is shown, however, Ela's record is also shown when displaying the duplicate. This is another small error that I would like to fix.

Sorry, someone has already booked this time. Here are their details; you can either contact them about this, or remove their booking.
('steph', 'Artificial Nails', 'Monday', '15/05', '12:00pm', 'steph@gmail.com')
('Ela', 'BLOCKED DATE', 'Monday', '15/05', '12:00pm', 'BLOCKED DATE')

Would you like to remove this person's booking? Y/N

Test Plan - Evidence

Note: For all the Series 1 tests, the proof that the links are working is the black box in the bottom left, which shows which page the link directs to. On the Navigation bar, the page I have clicked on will have slightly whiter writing than the others, for example, if I am on home and click the 'about' page in the navigation bar, the word 'about' will be lighter than the others, and the link to that page will appear in the bottom left, showing that it's definitely linked.

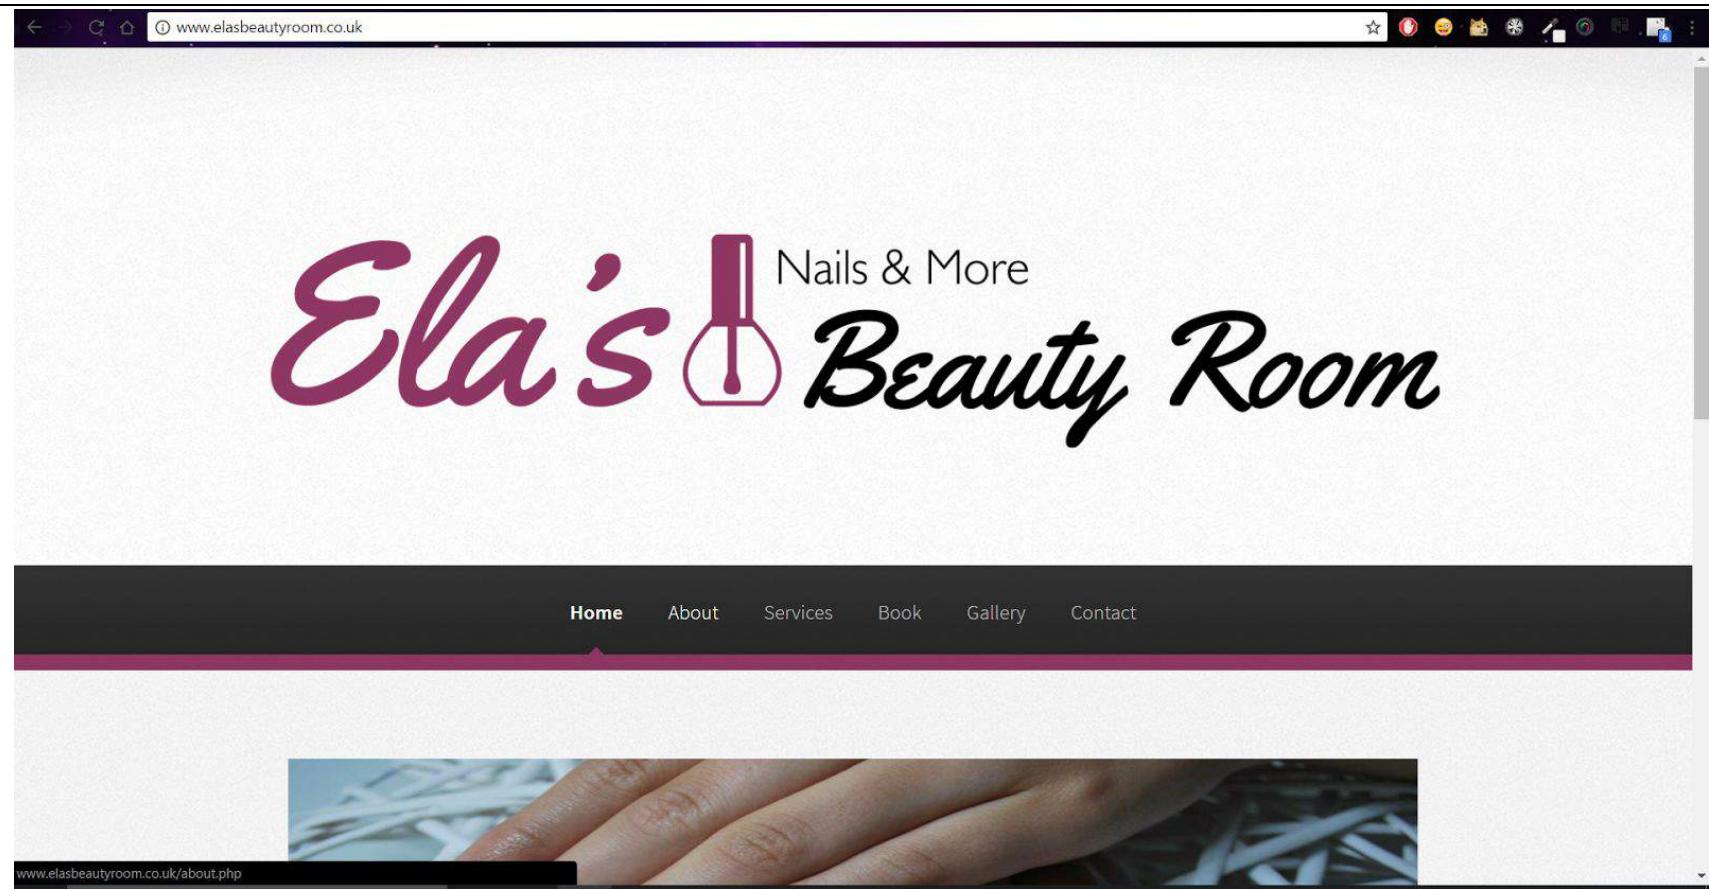

Here is my code as another method of proof to show that the links work:

<!-- Nav -->
<nav id="nav">
  <ul>
    <li class="current">Home</li>
    <li>About</li>
    <li>Services</li>
    <li>Book</li>
    <li>Gallery</li>
    <li>Contact</li>
  </ul>
</nav>
```

About Me

Ela Pawelczyk

Introduction

My name is Ela Pawelczyk. I was born in Poland and came to England 10 years ago. I have always wanted to start my own beauty business, it's been my passion for many years. In Poland, it's hard to start your own business. Moving to England allowed me to have a three month trial of my business, and also meant that I didn't have to pay so much upfront. I love the lifestyle in England and speak English fluently. I was really struggling in Poland, whereas in England, my dreams are coming true!

Why Beauty?

I've always been into makeup. I'd start almost every day by watching YouTube tutorials on nails and makeup; I was addicted! Watching these videos gave me the inspiration to start taking courses and start trying it out for myself. It started out as a hobby, doing my friend's nails and makeup for them, but soon this turned into a small business, which I love! I'm currently running this business part-time, but would love to make it my full time job. I never would have expected this hobby to bring me money, but now that realised I can, it would be a dream come true. I run the studio in my own home, which allows me to always be there for my two little girls, while at the same time, doing something I love! As well as this, the fact that it's at my home makes the atmosphere very cosy and comfortable. Your time here will leave you relaxed and refreshed.

About Me

Ela Pawelczyk

Introduction

My name is Ela Pawelczyk, I was born in Poland and came to England 10 years ago. I have always wanted to start my own beauty business, it's been my passion for many years. In Poland, it's hard to start your own business. Moving to England allowed me to have a three month trial of my business, and also meant that I didn't have to pay so much upfront. I love the lifestyle in England and speak English fluently. I was really struggling in Poland, whereas in England, my dreams are coming true!

Why Beauty?

I've always been into makeup. I'd start almost every day by watching YouTube tutorials on nails and makeup; I was addicted! Watching these videos gave me the inspiration to start taking courses and start trying it out for myself. It started out as a hobby, doing my friend's nails and makeup for them, but soon this turned into a small business, which I love! I'm currently running this business part-time, but would love to make it my full time job. I never would have expected this hobby to bring me money, but now that realised I can, it would be a dream come true. I run the studio in my own home, which allows me to always be there for my two little girls, while at the same time, doing something I love! As well as this, the fact that it's at my home makes the atmosphere very cosy and comfortable. Your time here will leave you relaxed and refreshed.

4.6.1

The display looks fine and is usable.

4.6.2

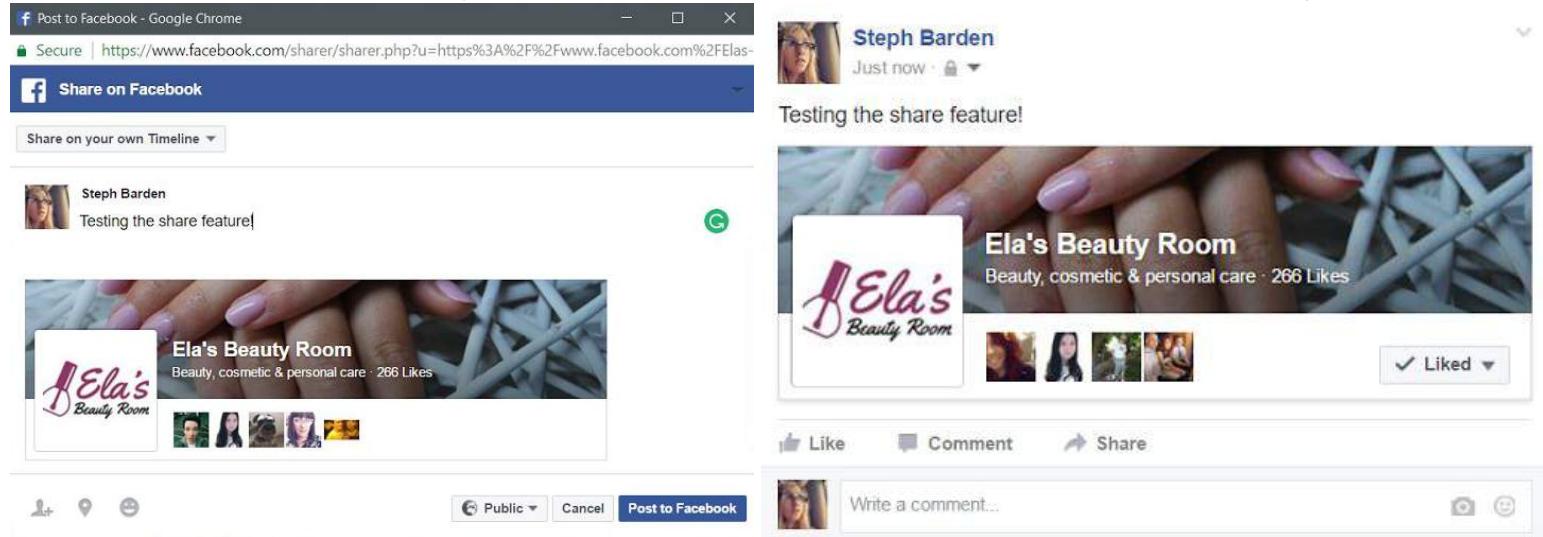

The display is usable, but looks very disproportional.

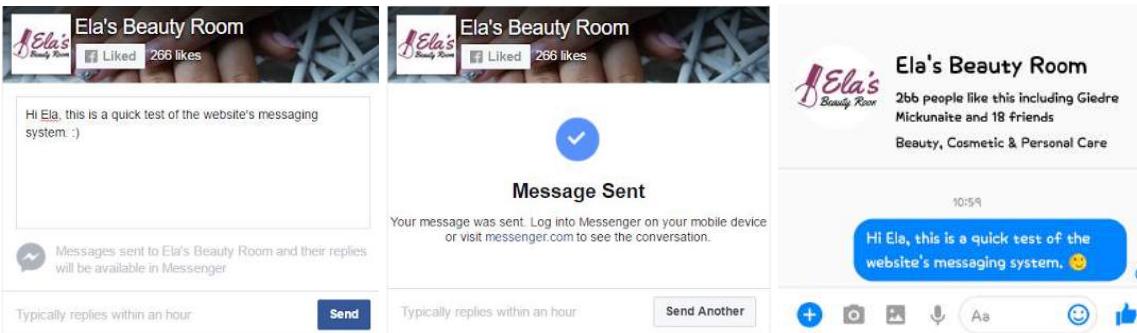

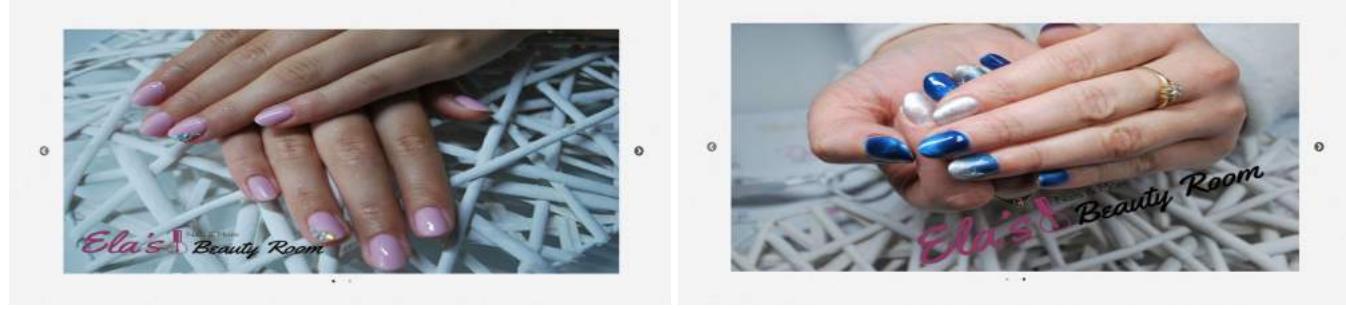

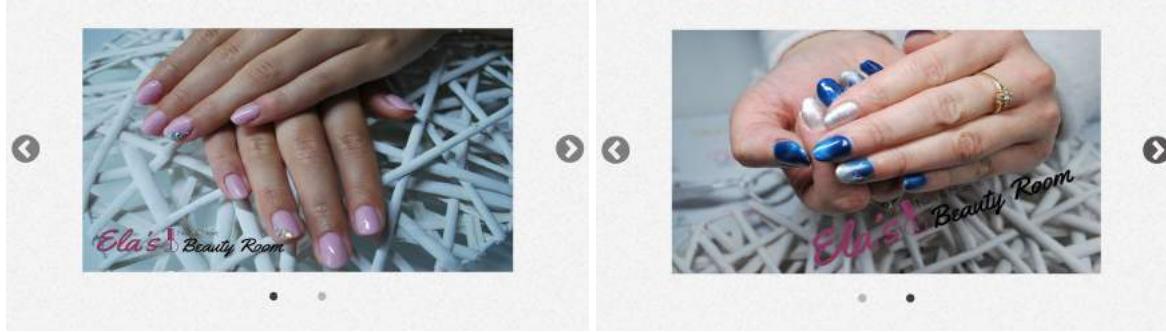

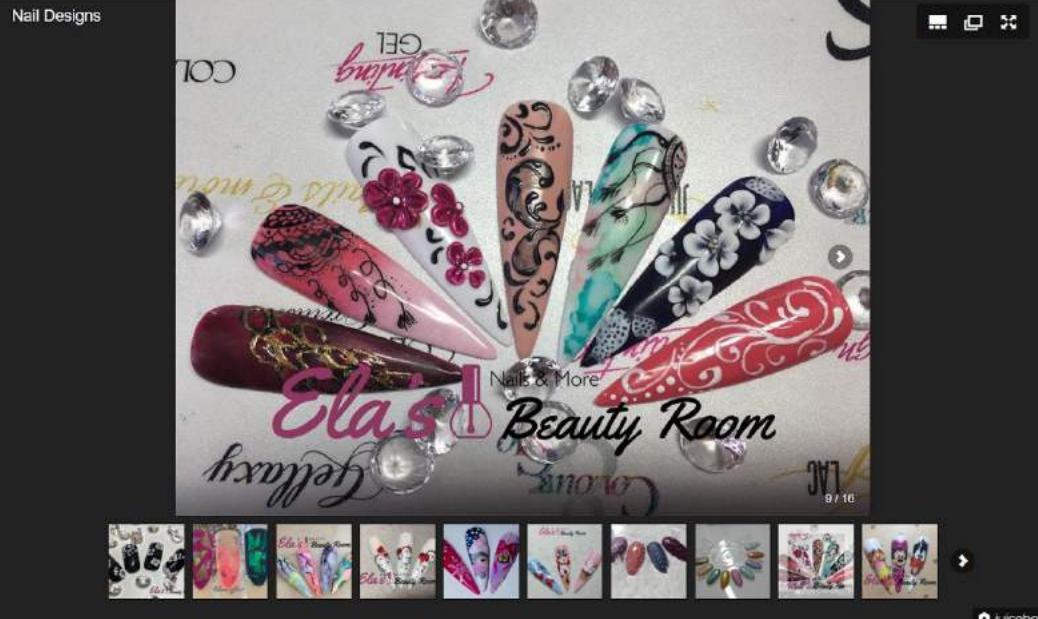

5.1.1

The feature is present on all pages, and the like/share buttons are both working.

If you look at the evidence for the pages working on all browsers, you will see the Facebook like and share button present on every page. You can also see on the Chrome browser testing that I have liked the page, so the like button definitely works. Here is a screenshot of the 'share' button working:

5.1.2	I have sent a message to the page, and this appeared when I logged in to Facebook messenger on my phone.	 The screenshot shows a Facebook Messenger conversation. On the left, there is a message from 'Ela's Beauty Room' to 'Ela's Beauty Room'. The message reads: 'Hi Ela, this is a quick test of the website's messaging system. :)'. Below this message is a note: 'Messages sent to Ela's Beauty Room and their replies will be available in Messenger'. At the bottom of the message area, it says 'Typically replies within an hour' and has a 'Send' button. On the right, there is a response from 'Ela's Beauty Room' to the same message, which says: 'Message Sent'. Below this, it says 'Your message was sent. Log into Messenger on your mobile device or visit messenger.com to see the conversation.' At the bottom of the message area, it says 'Typically replies within an hour' and has a 'Send Another' button. The overall interface is the standard Facebook Messenger design.

5.2.2	The slider is working fine, rotating smoothly between the two photos when the arrows are clicked.
5.3.1	The galleries look as expected on PC; fluid, easy to navigate, and easy to switch between galleries.

5.3.2

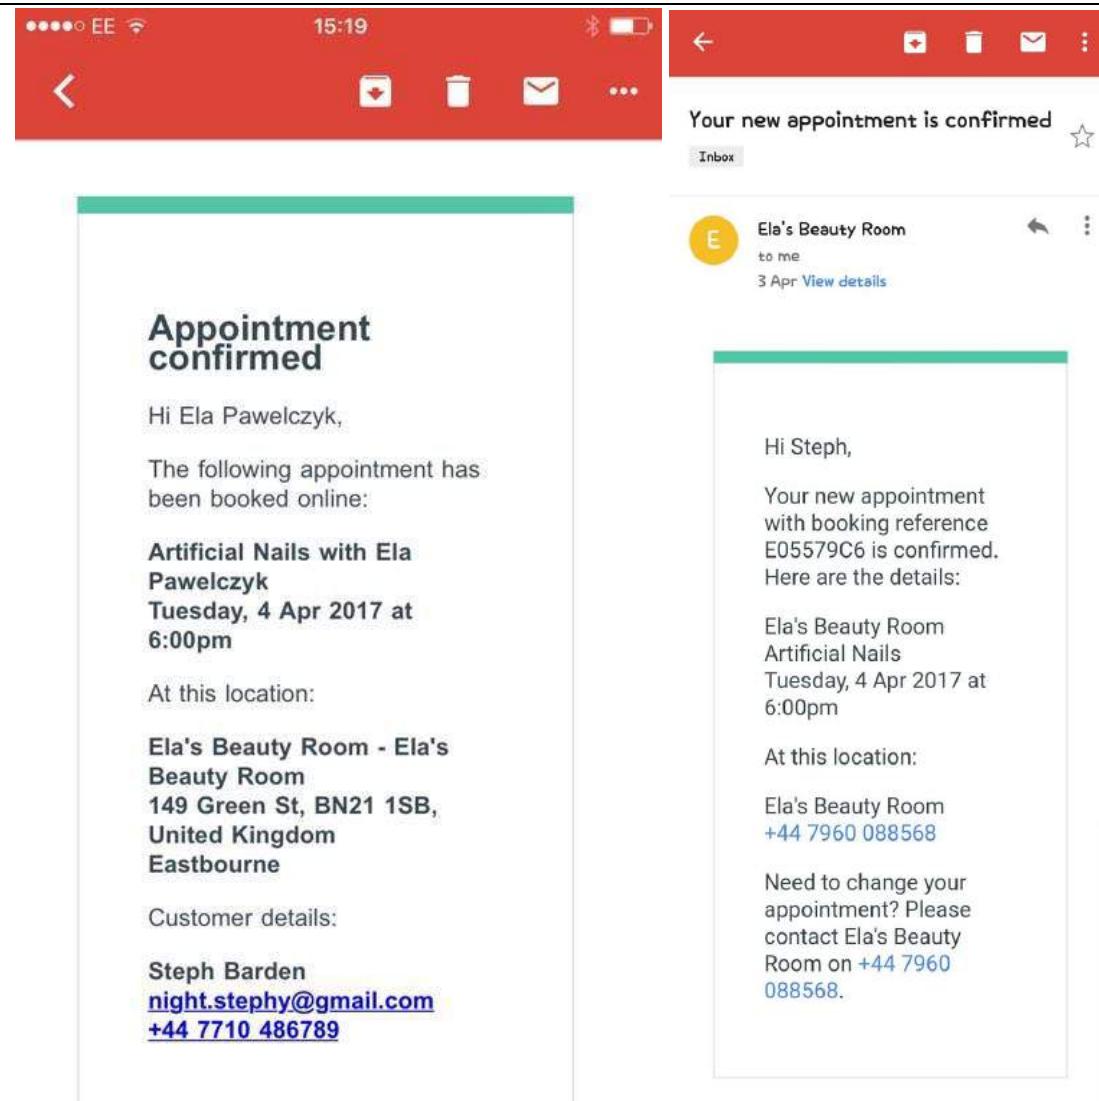

The gallery is very responsive, so it looks nice on mobile and is easy to navigate. To change between galleries, you may have to zoom in a little since the links are quite small.

5.4.1

The booking process is fluid and easy, working well on both computer and mobile.

An email was successfully sent to both Ela and the client booking, which you can see in the evidence part of the test plan.

After opening 200+ tabs on my internet browser, I navigated the site as usual. It worked completely fine.

7.1.2	The website was graded A by Pingdom. It was a good result, as it seems to be faster than over 60% of websites with a load time of 2.56 seconds.	<table border="1"> <tbody> <tr> <td data-bbox="877 255 1184 408"> Performance grade  100 </td><td data-bbox="1184 255 1491 408"> Load time 2.56 s </td><td data-bbox="1491 255 1798 408"> Faster than 60 % of tested sites </td></tr> <tr> <td data-bbox="877 408 1184 598"> Page size 0 B </td><td data-bbox="1184 408 1491 598"> Requests 18 </td><td data-bbox="1491 408 1798 598"> Tested from  San Jose on Jan 1 at 00:00 </td></tr> </tbody> </table>	Performance grade  100	Load time 2.56 s	Faster than 60 % of tested sites	Page size 0 B	Requests 18	Tested from  San Jose on Jan 1 at 00:00

7.1.3	The business is fairly new, so I would expect a normal load to be under 50 people. From the test, a few timeout errors were found, but the website seemed to handle it fine.	See the pages immediately after this table for the full load test results. You can see from the test results that as the hit rate increased, it caused the amount of errors to increase shortly after. None of these errors were anything to be concerned about, they were simply just pages being slow to respond. It seems that, when a wave of people visit the website, it struggles very slightly, but is fine given a few seconds. This statement is supported by page 4 of the results, named 'Error Details'. Overall, this test shows that the website might be slow when many people are on it, but this is not very likely to happen. As well as this, although it might be slow, it never actually crashed, which is definitely a good sign.

Appendix

Glossary

- Active users/User Load: Number of active users as defined in the load test scenario.
- Assertions: Count of assertions in error, failed, or successful. Assertions in error or failed lets you know that your servers did not answer as you expected.
- Connect Time: Time between the request and the server connection. This represents the time it took to establish the connection, including SSL handshake.
- Containers: Logical action which lets you group a set of requests. Usually containers correspond to a screen or web page for a better readability of the results.
- Errors: Count or rate of errors that occurred. Errors may happen if your virtual user is not properly designed. Otherwise, errors may be the sign that your servers are overloaded.
- Hits: Count or rate of hits (requests) that occurred. Hits indicate the level of load simulated to the server during the test. They should be inversely proportional to the response time.
- HTTP Response code: Code sent by the server indicating the status of the response to an http request. As a general rule, codes such as 1XX, 2XX and 3XX indicate a success whereas codes starting with 4XX or 5XX indicate a failure.
- Latency: Time between the request and the first response byte. This measures the latency from just before sending the request to just after the first response has been received. This includes all the processing to assemble the request as well as the first part of the response.
- Percentile: A percentile (or a centile) is a measure used in statistics indicating the value below which a given percentage of observations in a group of observations fall.
- Response time: Time between the request and the end of the response. Also called server response time because it does not include the client rendering time. The response time includes both the latency and the connect time.
- Standard deviation: Simply the square root of the variance. It's easier to compare to other metric types using a common unit.
- Throughput: Bit rate in Bytes per second. Amount of data exchanged between the simulated clients and the servers.
- Variance: The variance quantifies the dispersion of the metric. A variance close to 0 indicates that the metric values tend to be very close to the mean, while a high variance indicates that the values are spread out over a wider range. Its unit is the square of the metric unit.

Evaluation

To conclude, I will evaluate my project using feedback, evidence, and my own opinions.

To start with, we have feedback from the client, which is very important. Ela has sent me an email to let me know what she thought of the website, and it was all positive. I have attached a screenshot below.

Ela has stated that the website looks professional and clear, which was definitely one of my main goals. It was definitely reassuring to hear that she liked the booking system, which makes me feel more confident about my choice to use an integrated system rather than making my own, which would probably have not turned out to be very user-friendly or professional, however, I did receive some feedback that made me re-think this choice. I received a message from a classmate, as shown below.

This message inspired me to create my own booking system, which I have done in Python. Since this feedback was quite late-received, I didn't have enough time to integrate it for use in my own system or even write it up in PHP. As well as this, wanted the website to remain clean and professional, and I think my own system would have hindered this. The third-party system definitely would work better for Ela, but I still did want to have a go at making my own one.

I have some more feedback from posting my website on social media, and will paste some example comments below.

-  Robbie Redhead Clean, fresh and easy to navigate. Well done

-  Enrico Phillis Looks great ,all the info is there and easy to find,Impressive stuff.

From the feedback I have received, I think it is fair to say that the most successful features of my website were that it was clean, professional, and easy to navigate / find information.

As well as this, I believe that I have succeeded in most of the requirements stated by Ela.

The table below is a reference to the criteria I stated in the Analysis section of the project.

Description	Pass / Fail?	Comments
"It will be made in HTML with PHP, CSS and use a mySQL database."	Pass	I have used all of these to make my website, plus Javascript and Bootstrap.
"Can schedule appointments from it."	Pass	Appointments can be easily scheduled using the online booking system.
"Will be responsive and fit to any screen."	Pass	The display works on any size screen. The only small problem is when you zoom out on a screen, it looks slightly disproportional, however, it is still usable.
"Admins will have logins."	Pass	There is only one admin, which is Ela. She will be able to log in using a PHP Session variable.
"Uses the colours of the logo."	Pass	I have used the purple and black colour scheme throughout the website. I have taken the exact shade of purple to make sure that it looks consistent.
"Has special effects when clicking on certain things."	Fail	I was very unsure on how to create this effect. Also, I think that it would make the website look less professional.
"Is clean and professional."	Pass	I believe that this website does look clean and professional. After posting the website online, I got many comments stating how clean and fluid it was, however, I did have help from the responsive template.
"Has a large amount of pictures of her (Ela's) work."	Pass	I have 6 different galleries, all containing varying amounts of pictures. There are pictures of Ela's work, as well as of her doing workshops and her certificates.

"Detailed information on each product."	Pass	The table on the 'Services' page contains information about each product. It is not extremely detailed, simply to make it look cleaner, however, most of the treatment names are self-explanatory.
"Has pictures of her achievements."	Pass	There are many pictures on the gallery of her work and many certificates.
"Has an 'About Me' section explaining why she started the business which will make the website more personal."	Pass	There is a whole page dedicated to Ela and hearing about how and why she started her business in beauty.
"Involves an integrated system."	Pass	There is an integrated booking system designed by Shedul .
"Allows Ela to keep track of bookings."	Pass	The Shedul website has a very user-friendly timetable to keep track of appointments.
"Allows people to message her page directly."	Pass	On the contact page, a direct Facebook message button has been implemented.
"Link to her business Facebook page."	Pass	There are links to her Facebook page on every page of the website.
"As many contact details as possible."	Pass	I asked Ela for all of her website's contact details, and have included them all on the Contact page of the website.
"A Google Maps location embedded."	Pass	A Google Maps API has been integrated on the Contact page of the website.

As well as the good, there were a few things that I could improve on if I were to create another website in the future. I would definitely learn some more CSS so that I can create my own responsive website without needing help from a template. I would also try and add more complicated features, such as more interactivity using Javascript. In reference to the errors found during testing, I would make sure that only the correct information can be input into forms, and check to see which inputs will have to be set as required. I might also create a database of users rather than using PHP session variables, although, it does depend on how many people will be logging in.

Another final improvement that I could make, is to re-write the Python booking system I created for use in PHP. I would also link it to a mySQL database.

Overall, I would definitely say that this project was a success. The feedback is all positive, and the majority of requirements were met, even though there were a few small errors.
